

Storyboard

The Interface will consist of two levels of information. The first would be an intro NDU logo then into ISMO Logo that would spin into a globe. The globe would then flatten out and create the first screen. After this action, the map would be accessible to persons looking to touch the location of the country. One country will raise off of the screen upon being touched to show the country where the pupils have originated from. Upon selection (second touch) the country would show the students that are currently/have studied from that region. The last level of interface would be a screen showing information about the student, what they are studying and what awards they have earned while doing so.
